Your Camouflage Checklist

The basics. All of them. No jargon.

This is everything from the book on one page. The actual actions, in order of importance, written for someone who has a job and a family and thirty minutes to change how exposed they are.

You do not need to do all of it today. You need to start. Tackle 2-3 each Month and soon you will be unstoppable. Pick the first three and do them this week. The rest will follow.

	Action	Notes
☐	Get a Password Manager	Bitwarden and Proton are free. Nord, 1Password and Dashlane are paid. Set it up and migrate your critical accounts first: email, banking, work.
☐	Don't use "Remember Me"	This is the single most important step. Your email controls every reset link. Use an authenticator app over SMS when possible.
☐	Review your LinkedIn profile	Remove software platforms, vendor names, team sizes, and anything that maps your operational infrastructure. Title and industry are enough. It's not a resume.
☐	Audit your social media privacy settings	Set personal accounts to private or limit/review what a stranger can see. Check tagged photos, location data, and family references. Never post children's pictures on social media. Take those down.
☐	Run your name through 2-3 people-search sites	Search yourself. Submit opt-out requests where they exist. operationprivacy.com has the current links organized by site.
☐	Verify Companies/Vendors Before You Buy Online	Use a Site Scam Checker like (https://www.scamadviser.com/) and Site Verifier like (https://www.getsafeonline.org/checkawebsite/) before buying from any new store online.
☐	Establish a Family Code Word	One conversation. One arbitrary word. Everyone in your household knows it. Anyone claiming to be a family member in an emergency must know it too.
☐	Practice a "Pause"	Literally Stop. Breathe. Wait 30 seconds. Let Cortisol go down. You will think clearer.

	Action	Notes
☐	Verify The HUMAN	Speak to the actual person through a method you control. Type the address yourself. The legitimate company will be there. Never click sponsored ads.
☐	Don't use "Remember Me"	Stay-signed-in tokens can be stolen and used without your password. Log in fresh for banking and all email. FBI has warned of this specifically several times.
☐	Review your LinkedIn profile	Remove software platforms, vendor names, team sizes, and anything that maps your operational infrastructure. Title and industry are enough. It's not a resume.
☐	Audit your social media privacy settings	Set personal accounts to private or limit/review what a stranger can see. Check tagged photos, location data, and family references. Never post children's pictures on social media. Take those down.

New True Crime Book Series.

True Nonfiction Story of Real-world AI Risks and How One Leader Overcame.

Book 1 — The Art of Online Camouflage

Stevie Parker isn't reckless. She's busy. The twelve mistakes she makes are the same ones everyone makes. The criminals already knew that. True crime meets cybersecurity in the book that shows ordinary people how organized crime already has their information and what to do before that becomes a problem.

-Available everywhere (print, ePub & audiobook).

Book 2 — The Obedient Machine

Stevie survived the first book. Then she handed the keys to an AI she didn't fully understand. A dormant breach activates. A $770K acquisition dies. The criminals weren't done. Neither was she. The sequel that every executive deploying AI right now needs to read before they find out the hard way.

-Available everywhere (print, ePub & audiobook).

Book 3 — Ghost and the Machine

The criminals found Stevie twice. She decided there wouldn't be a third time. Book 3 follows Stevie as she dismantles her public identity, builds a clean isolated AI, and becomes the person organized crime can't locate.

-Final book in the Moving Target Trilogy. Coming Fall 2026.
